Joe Webb Peoples Award Summary

GEOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF CONNECTICUT Joe Webb Peoples Award

Joe Webb Peoples was a Professor at Wesleyan University from 1935-1975. His tenure there was interrupted twice. Once to help the war effort (1940-1945 studying chromite deposits in Montana), and again in the 1950's (USGS chromite-related projects). While at USGS, he developed a relationship with Lincoln Page, and as State Geologist (1960-1974) he worked with Link, and other USGS and academic mappers to initiate a systematic mapping of CT quadrangles. The mapping program he developed has now resulted in the publication of the Bedrock Geological Map of Connecticut (John Rodgers, 1985) and the Quaternary Geologic Map of Connecticut and Long Island Sound Basin (Stone and others, 2005). A hallmark of Joe's contribution was the vitality and fellowship that characterized the annual summer conference he sponsored (each followed by an evening at People's Choice, his home overlooking the Connecticut River in Middle Haddam). Joe was also largely responsible for the successful effort to create Dinosaur State Park.
